InterestsDEBUTANTES MAKE THEIR BOW TO RICHMOND SOCIETYGerman Club Gives Brilliant Entertainment in Jefferson Hotel Ballroom.

In a setting of palms, bay trees and garlands of pink flowers, fifteen lovely young girls made their bow to the fashionable society last evening at the debutante ball of the Richmond German Club. The function took place in the ballroom of the Jefferson Hotel, and an orchestra played for the dancing. The "first Monday" being distinctly to the debutantes, and the dance is given over entirely to them, all interesting business being left to them, their friends, their bouquets and their escorts. The Richmond German Club is the oldest and most exclusive social organization in the city, and the names of the beautiful women who have come and gone at their balls have been observed at the dances for years past. The presence of a debutante at this first dance marks her formal entrance into the innermost set of Richmond, and there are many heartaches each season among would-be aspirants, over the lack of invitations to this German.

Colonel Jo Lane Stern lead the German, dancing with Miss Janet Keene Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Jones. Miss Jones wore an imported dress of pink pineapple tissue, embroidered in gold tulips, and she carried pink orchids.

Other debutantes noted were Miss Carter Ingram, daughter of Mrs. John Henry Ingram and the late Judge Ingram, wearing a white gown and a single red polka-dot, dancing with Tazewell Carrington.

Miss Ellen Wright Wise, daughter of Mrs. Barton Haxall Wise, in a white dress of white satin, trimmed in roses, with a bouquet of orchids; dancing with Stuart C. Leake.

Miss Alice Burwell Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Reed, in a white dress of white satin, trimmed in purple orchids, with John Cuthbert.

Miss Ethel Alston Cabell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Alston Cabell, in a white dress of white satin, with a bouquet of American Beauty roses, with Dr. Norton Mason.

Miss Roberta Kyle Pleasant, niece of Mrs. Reginald Gilham, and Miss Virginia Pleasant, in white chameuse, draped in chiffon and trimmed in pearls and rare old lace, American Beauty roses, with Carlton McKenny.

Miss Mary Lyon Tyler, daughter of Judge and Mrs. J. M. Tyler, of "Sherwood Forest," in white chameuse, draped in chiffon and trimmed in pearls and rare old lace, American Beauty roses, with C. M. Childers.

Miss Anne Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Myers, Jr., in soft white satin, embroidered and trimmed in silver lace, a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley, with William R. Trigg.

Miss Janet Montague, daughter of Congressman and Mrs. Andrew Jackson Montague, in a quaint tulle dress of blue silk, finished with Oriental drapery, American Beauty roses, with George Melville Reed.

Miss Annie Cleveland Cone, daughter of Mr. Archibald Pleasant Cone, in white chameuse, finished with a drape of iridescent crystal beads, or with Walter J. Cary.

Miss Maude Ansley, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. George Ansley, in white net embroidered in pink flowers and made over a white satin foundation, with Charles G. Harris.

Miss Martha Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Allen Chambers, in white chameuse, draped in embroidered chiffon, orchids and lilies of the valley, with John Cary.

Miss May Mercer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William F. Mercer, in white satin, trimmed in silver spangles, or with Edward C. Harrison, Jr.

Miss Mary H. Palmer, Jr., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Palmer, Jr., in white chameuse, with a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley, with John Cary.

An interesting affair of Saturday in Norfolk was given when Mrs. Walter H. Whichard entertained at her apartment in the Holland at a card party and afternoon tea in honor of Miss Nancy Outten Foreman, on which occasion Miss Foreman's engagement to John Gilliam Mance, of Richmond, was announced. The rooms were decorated with palms, ferns and white chrysanthemums, and a basket filled with white chrysanthemums and decorated with green tulle made a centerpiece for the table. The cakes, bonbons and creams were heart-shaped and appropriately decorated with sprays of orange blossoms. The score cards were miniature bouquets of orange blossoms, to which were attached the names of Miss Foreman and Mr. Mance.

Mrs. Whichard had as her guests for cards Miss Nancy Outten Foreman, Miss Louise Braxton Robinson, Miss Anna Rose John, Miss Emily Taylor, Miss Courtney Arms, Miss Josephine Arms, and Misses Frances and Mae Merri-man Priddy, and those invited in for tea were Mrs. George Symm, of Raleigh, N. C.; Mrs. T. A. Bain, Jr., of Mrs. Kemp Sawyer, of John H. Wes, Jr., Mrs. C. B. Gifford, Mrs. C. B. Taylor, Mrs. R. L. Payne, Jr., Mrs. Pickney Payne, Mrs. J. E. Booth, Miss Frances Meyer, Miss Bell Irvine, and Miss Bessie Payne. Mrs. Booth poured tea, assisted by Miss Bessie Payne.

For Miss Jones.

Many of the entertainments during the week just past in Danville have been in honor of Miss Grace Stuart Jones, daughter of Mrs. E. J. Jones, who is to be married this week. John E. Overbey entertained at bridge whist on Friday afternoon at his residence in compliment to Miss Jones. Among those present beside the guest of honor were Misses Araminta Holcombe, Mary Boisseau, Madge Vass, Gladys Lea, Leaving for Washington.

Mrs. Andrew Jackson Montague and her daughters, Misses Gay and Janet Montague, have left their home, 1111 Grove Avenue, for the winter and are leaving Thursday for Washington, where they will join Congressman Montague for the season. Congressman Montague and his family have taken an apartment in the Avoncon, on P. Street, for three months, as they will not return to Richmond for some time.

Dr. and Mrs. T. Archibald Cary and their daughters, the Misses Cary, have taken the Montague residence, on Grove Avenue, and they expect to move there this week.

Announcement of Interest.

Cards have been issued for the marriage of Miss Carolyn Minor, daughter of Mrs. Edmund Christian Minor and the late E. C. Minor, to Richard Sterling Ely. The wedding will be celebrated on Wednesday evening, December 30, at 8:30 o'clock in St. Paul's Episcopal Church. The ceremony will be one of the most notable events of the winter season, and a distinguished assembly of guests will throng historic St. Paul's Church for the marriage.

Dr. Leland B. Cofer, of Washington, D. C., has announced the engagement of his daughter, Henrietta Leland Cofer, to Donald W. Vought, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Vought, of Englewood, N. J. WOMEN'S MEETINGS.

The Parent Teacher Association of the William Fox School will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the school auditorium, instead of the fourth Tuesday, the regular meeting day. All patrons are cordially invited.

The Story-Tellers' League of Richmond will meet on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the auditorium of the Virginia "Machan" Institute. Christmas stories will be told, and it is hoped that there will be a large gathering of children, as well as the members of the league, and all others who would like to go back with the children to the days of their own childhood.

The regular weekly meeting of the Rosemary Society was held Wednesday evening at the residence of the treasurer, Miss Kathryn Lotero, 117 North Twenty-sixth Street. The next meeting will be held Wednesday at the residence of Miss Joale Lotero, 524 North Thirtieth Street.

The annual meeting of the Commonwealth Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be held in room 630, Jefferson Hotel, this morning at 12 o'clock. All members are requested to be present, as this is a most important meeting, election of officers being in order at this time.

"VISIONS" IS TOPIC OF MRS. ROBINS AT WOMAN'S CLUB

Speaker Praises High Ideals of Well-Known Richmond Women Who Have Accomplished Much.

"Visions" was the subject of an interesting and very human paper read by Mrs. Sally Nelson Robins yesterday afternoon before the Woman's Club. Mrs. William G. Starnard presented Mrs. Robins to her audience as "a woman who does things." Mrs. Robins has already made a name for herself as an author and writer, and is ranked among the most gifted women among the members of the club. Her discourse yesterday was replete with the charm and intellect of the woman who made it.

The speaker stated that she had not come to bring to her audience an account of forgotten lore, nor yet the history of the men and women who from the beginning had dreamed dreams and seen visions, but rather to talk of the visions of the human soul. The dreams of poets, painters, martyrs have caught fire at a spark from heaven's own furnace, and all of us in an humble way may light a torch at the same source. Visions are usually of service and love, small at first, but growing in breadth and understanding until they adorn the vast dome of life with their brightness. Ideas radiate from the great thoughts of seers, and one finds that it is always the idea—not the man—that lives.

Mrs. Robins asked that we then respect our ideal, not despise them, but dream a dream of greater things, for expansion and usefulness in the home, the city and the club. A vision is a man or woman's idea of life; his opinion of himself, of his country, his universe, and the strength of it lies in his own peculiar and vivid way of looking upon life. To illustrate this, Mrs. Robins read an enchanting story of her own, soon to be published. It is a page from the real life of a real child, full of pathos and heart and a sunny dream of a great to-be.

Man is slow to make mental adjustment and hence from the outworn shackles of tradition. Visions today dazzle us like flowers or stars; we do not have to cross seas or climb mountains to see the people who dream, and so was that Mrs. Robins paid her tribute to women in Richmond who have accomplished much—Mrs. Bryan, in the Belle Bryan Day Nursery; Miss Marjorie H. Hawes, in the Young Women's Christian Association; Mrs. B. Munford, in the Woman's Club; Miss Mary Greenhow, in the Home for Incapacities; Mrs. A. Y. Stokes, in the Associated Charities; Mrs. Jennings, in the Retreat for the Sick—all visions grown into realities.

The Neglected Home

By LILLIAN RUSSELL.

Copyright, 1914, by Lillian Russell.

The neglected home is a home with a beautifully and perfectly arranged housewife in its midst is a striking combination. It suggests a comparison which is not favorable to the character of the woman. The appearance of a woman's home depends upon the same person. The appearance of a woman's home depends upon the same person. The appearance of a woman's home depends upon the same person.

The background detracts from or adds to a woman's appearance, regardless of any personal beauty she may possess, and the care with which she selects her gowns. The housewife in her own home makes her home a reflection of her own self-interest. These are traits to be suppressed, not cultivated.

The well-dressed woman should have a proper background. At least she should select the best within her reach. She does not get this in a disordered home. The appearance of a woman's home is of her choosing. No matter how she may gown herself, if her home is not in order there is a lack of harmony in the combination which is strikingly in evidence to others.

the condition of her home suggests undesirable traits and characteristics. The responsibility of keeping house falls to the lot of practically every woman at some time or other. She may be responsible for one room or for a palace. It may be her good fortune to escape actual work through employing servants, yet the responsibility for the appearance of her home rests upon the way she assumes that burden will be judged.

Few people escape responsibilities, and the housewife is always held accountable for the order of her home. The furniture may be old and worn, there may be a shortage of costly ornaments and other pretty things that money can buy; but if the housewife makes the best possible use of the material at her command in arranging her home and keeping it in order, the critical eye will be turned upon her, and even though she be a commoner she will suffer through criticism.

Keep your house in order. That will be significant of your real self. It will be a better setting for you, whether your clothes are plain or costly. The condition of your home reflects the character of the woman behind your gown, regardless of well-measured smiles or words.

Remember: You cannot be so beautiful that your beauty will blind the eyes of others to your disordered home.

Lillian Russell's Answer.

M. B. C. Olive oil taken every morning half an hour before breakfast is good for removing liver spots and otherwise clearing the complexion. Take a teaspoonful of the best olive oil before breakfast and the same quantity half an hour after the latest meal. You must, however, persist in this treatment to get the desired result. The unswollen juice of a lemon in a glass of water every morning before breakfast is also beneficial for this purpose. Drink plenty of cool water between meals. Proper facial massage daily with a good skin food will help to eradicate wrinkles.
